Continuing Education

This is the front yard in fall at Kevin Kelly's award-winning garden in Lower Paxton Twp.

A Four-Season Garden: A Photographic Tour
Join Penn State Master Gardener Kevin Kelly for a virtual tour of his suburban garden through each of the seasons. You will see how his passion for gardening and photography has resulted in a garden with year-round interest and excitement. He will share what he has learned along the way

"Research continues to show that birdwatching can have a positive impact on people's well-being, offering peace, connection to nature, and joy in observing the natural world.

But beyond creating a space for birds to thrive in our backyards and enjoying their presence, we can also play a crucial role as citizen scientists in tracking bird populations across North America.

By identifying which bird species are increasing in numbers or range and which are declining, we can contribute to important conservation efforts.

One of the best ways to get involved is through Project FeederWatch, a winter and spring birdwatching program led by Cornell University's Lab of Ornithology that relies on participants for support."

Holly Pavilion at Quiet Waters Park

Native Garden Planting Event

October 19, 2024

8 am – 12 noon

We completed Phase 1 - Invasives Removal at Quiet Waters Park - Holly Pavilion on July 22nd and removed over 1000 square feet of invasives. Now, the fun part!

Please join us for Phase 2-Native Perennial, Shrub, and Tree Plantings in front of Holly Pavilion at Quiet Waters Park from 8 am to noon on Saturday, October 19th (inclement weather date Sunday, October 20th). Please bring your favorite planting tools and gloves. We intend to install over 200 native beauties across a 2000-square-foot garden, so we need all the help we can get! This is a capstone project for Class 16 of the Anne Arundel County Watershed Stewards Academy (WSA). Let the gate attendant know you are coming to support the WSA planting project at Holly Pavilion. Please notify Andrea Weir (goldiebell5946@gmail.com) if you plan to attend. Master Gardeners will earn volunteer hours for this event.

South County Senior Center

We have the following workdays scheduled:

Workday: Friday, 11 Oct at 4 PM

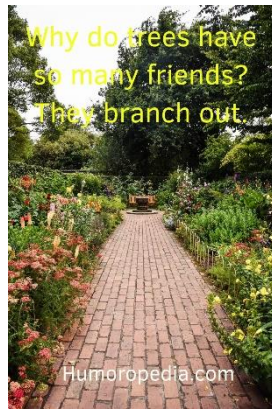

Workday: Friday, 15 Nov Time TBD

We are hoping to sneak another one in there for October--there's planting in the future.

Tabling will start later at 10 AM until 11 or 11:30. For more information, contact Elena Corbett or Linda Fennell.

Remembering Stanton

Stanton Andrew Gill of Brookeville, MD, son of Austin and Rosalia Gill, passed away unexpectedly on October 6, 2024. Known for his kind heart, tremendous energy, and love of life, Stanton will be sorely missed by his friends, his extensive working community, and his family. Stanton is survived by his wife Nancy, his two daughters Chelsey and Kelly (Kentaro), his sister Rose Mary (Ed), and his brother David (Sandy).

Stanton, a distinguished entomologist and an icon in the cut flower industry, loved the opportunity to share his passions of research and education, working with the University of Maryland at the Central Maryland Research and Education Center (CMREC), for nearly 50 years. He was an integral part of establishing the Montgomery College Landscape Technology 2-year AA degree program where he took his students beyond the classroom by passing on real world practical experiences to expand his students' skills and abilities. He expanded his horizons and understanding of the sciences he taught by purchasing farmland and painstakingly establishing an extensive orchard operation at his beloved MacBride and Gill Falcon Ridge Farm. This proved to be an unexpected learning experience for Stanton, himself, who often commented that his understanding of all things agricultural was greatly enhanced by his hands-on efforts at his farm. His successful venture in fruit growing led him to be a long-time and well-known vendor at the Olney Farmers Market along with several other markets.

But beyond Stanton's work was his shining personality and kindness. His light was a strong force and he will be remembered for his practical jokes, the games at his farm parties, his willingness to always step in and help his coworkers and friends, his unending energy, and his love of adventure. As a husband, father, friend, educator, colleague and mentor, he touched many lives and will long be remembered.

The family is establishing a scholarship in Stanton's honor for the Montgomery College Environmental Horticulture Program. In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made at www.montgomerycollege.edu/donate, selecting "Give to where the need is greatest", and then noting that this is a memorial gift in honor of Stanton Gill.

Planting at Park Retreat Conservation Area

Monday, October 28

1:30 – 3:30

Fall is moving on, and there are more native species to plant in Park Retreat Forest Conservation Area. We are planting on Monday, October 28 from 1:30-3:30. Bring your favorite planting tools and 2 buckets if you have them-one for compost and the other for wood chips. The plants are relatively small, so hand trowels and cultivators should be all you need. Put 103 Natalie Lane, Millersville, into your GPS. Park in the street (be mindful of parking signs so the school bus can get through. Follow the walking trail to the left of the house until you run into plants and people.
